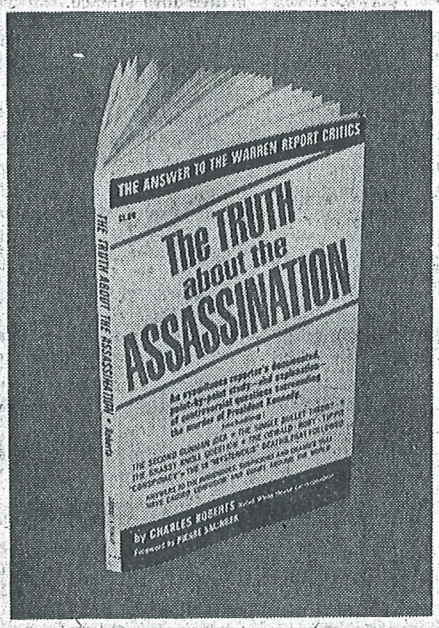
The Washington Post will publish excerpts from this important new book in six daily installments . . .

starting Sunday, April 2



By Charles Roberts, White House correspondent for Newsweek.

Roberts was in Dallas on the day Mr. Kennedy was murdered. He flew back to Washington on the plane carrying the dead President and his successor. As an independent eyewitness, he challenges the accuracy of several points in William Manchester's book. But he debunks the "conspiracy" theory and in a documented study, refutes the suspicions and doubts voiced by critics of the Warren Report.
